

I am a resident of Indiana, and am registered on Indiana's do not call list for telemarketers. I oppose any weakening of the protection of my privacy that is provided by this law. The request made by the Consumer Bankers Association, if granted, would allow not only the banks, but any other company with which I have done business in the past, to call me whenever they want, and as often as they want.

Legitimate businesses have many means of communicating with their current customers. These include direct mailings, inserts sent with statements, and advertising in local publications and at their place of business. Unsolicited telephone calls from businesses are an intrusion into my time with my family. Please do not grant the request made by the Consumer Bankers Association. It would create a loophole and weaken the integrity of Indiana's privacy law.

Sincerely,

Sandra R. Dietz
